

Teaching innovation.

You want a career that enriches not only your life, but also the lives of others. As a member of the SECEP faculty and staff, it's a dream that can quickly become reality.

We believe in a culture of teamwork, respect and compassion—for both your students and your fellow coworkers. It's why we offer so many opportunities for growth and development. As part of the largest and most comprehensive regional special education program in the mid-Atlantic region, you'll have access to incredible resources and formative supervision to support your growth as a professional. Mentorships are strongly encouraged, and with such an extensive group of friendly and knowledgeable peers, it's easy to strengthen your skills. Plus, our small class sizes make teaching more manageable and rewarding.

SECEP is a recognized technology leader.

We are committed to integrating instructional information technology into all aspects of the curriculum, an advantage that is recognized at the local, regional and state levels.

Add competitive salaries and benefits—as well as all the benefits that come from living in the vibrant Hampton Roads region—and you'll see why so many of our teachers and staff say that SECEP is more than a career. It's a passion.

Kelly Messina

REACH teacher at St. Mary's Home for Disabled Children
Winner of the 2010 Elementary School
Technology Educator of the Year Award

When teaching students with hearing impairments, visual impairments, physical impairments and cognitive limitations, Kelly Messina counts on her own creativity and patience. But she also depends on technology tools such as Powerpoint and Boardmaker Plus, premier software programs that allow her to adapt lessons to individual student needs. Kelly even uses a video camera to help her recognize responses from her students; since then, she's noticed a 25% improvement in appropriate responses. By pairing solid teaching skills with new technology, Kelly engages and encourages even the youngest minds.
